

CONJUNCTION

What is a conjunction ?

A Conjunction is a word or a phrase that joins together two sentences/words/phrases and clauses.

Examples :-

- English and science are very important subjects.
- She must clear the exam or she will not get the job.
- God made man and man made inventions.
- Our boat is small but we can accommodate you.

Kinds of Conjunctions :-

1. Coordinating conjunctions
2. Subordinating conjunctions
3. Correlative conjunctions
4. Compound conjunctions

I. Coordinating Conjunctions :-

The main function of coordinating conjunctions is to join words, phrases, and clauses together, which are usually grammatically the same or of equal rank and status. This type of conjunction is usually placed in between the words or groups of words that it links together, and not at the beginning or at the end.

There are several main coordinating conjunctions, like - For, And, Nor, But, Or, Yet, So.

Examples :-

F: for: I went to bed for I was feeling exhausted

A: and: Math and English are very important subjects.

N: nor: The students did not complete their homework, nor did they pass the test.

B: but: She wanted to go to the beach, but it was raining.

O: or: Sleep now or you will miss the class tomorrow.

Y: yet: Life is full of troubles yet none wants to die.

S: so: Ravi did not try hard so he did not succeed.

The coordinating conjunctions are of 4 types :-

1. Cumulative Conjunctions
2. Adversative Conjunctions
3. Alternative conjunctions
4. Illative Conjunctions

1. Cumulative conjunction :-

A cumulative conjunction merely adds one statement to another, noun with a noun, pronoun with a pronoun, adjectives with adjectives . Some of them are 'and', 'both...and', 'as well as', 'not only...but also', 'now', 'too', 'no less than', 'also'.

Examples :-

- Arun as well as Ahana is going. (Two Nouns)
- Divya is both clever and beautiful. (Two Adjectives)
- They not only looted the shop but also set it on fire. (Two Statement)

2. Adversative conjunction :-

An adversative conjunction expresses opposition or contrast between two nouns/pronouns or sentences. Like- 'But, Yet, Still, Only, However, Nevertheless, While, Whereas.'

Examples :-

- The rope was thin but it was strong.
- He is rich still he is unhappy.
- There was little chance of success nevertheless they decided to go ahead.

3. Alternative conjunction :-

A conjunction which presents two alternatives, sometimes indicating a choice between them, is called a disjunctive or alternative conjunction- 'Either...or, Neither...nor, otherwise, else, or'

Examples :-

- You can have coffee or tea.
- I will neither obey your instructions nor quit.
- She didn't sing, neither did she dance.
- You must pay the fine otherwise you will be punished.

4. Illative conjunctions :-

Conjunctions which express a relation between the two sentences are called illative conjunctions -for, so.

Examples :-

- Something fell, for I heard a thud.
- He works hard so he will win.
- They must have gone out for nobody answers the phone.

II. Subordinating Conjunction :-

This type of conjunction is used in linking two clauses together. These Two Clauses are dependent on each other, Aside from the fact that they introduce a dependent clause. Subordinating conjunctions also describe the relationship between the dependent clause and the independent clause in the sentence.

Type of Subordinating Conjunctions :-

1. Time :- Here are the most common subordinating conjunctions of time - after, before, as soon as, while, until/till, when, whenever, since, by the time.

Example :-

- We will have dinner together after the meeting ends.
- While my parents were outside, partying, I was recording a video.

2. Place :- where, everywhere, wherever

Example :-

- You can rest wherever you want.

3. Reason (Cause & Effect) :- because, as, since, in order that, now that, so that

Example :-

- He didn't join us last night because he was feeling sick.
- Now that the exams are over, let's go somewhere and party.

4. Condition :- if, only if, unless, provided, provided that, assuming

Example :-

- He will talk to you only if you are well behaved.
- Ravi is not going back to his hometown unless he gets a job in hand.

5. Concession :- though, although, even though

Example :-

- Even though we played well, we lost the match.
- The teacher threw me out of the class though I didn't do anything.

6. Manner :- as, as if, as though, like

'As' is used to express manner where 'like' is used to show only resemblance or for examples. 'Like' is followed by a noun or noun equivalent.

Example :-

- You are acting as if you have seen a ghost.
- They reacted as though they had not been informed about their results.
- You are requested to do everything like I say. (Incorrect)
- You are requested to do everything as I say. (correct)

7. Comparison :- than, as...as, so.....as.

Note: “So....as” is used in Negative sentences, whereas “As.....as” is used in Positive as well as Negative sentences.

Example :-

- She is not so intelligent as you. (Negative)
- The match was not as good as we expected it to be. (Negative)
- He is as intelligent as you. (Positive)

III. Correlative Conjunction :-

Correlative conjunctions work in pairs to add two words, phrases, or clauses that have equal importance in a sentence. That's why we call them Correlative: CO (together) and relate (relate one element to another in a sentence).

List of Common Correlative Conjunctions :-

1. either or
2. neither nor
3. not only but also
4. both and
5. whether or
6. so as
7. Such that
8. Scarcely/Hardly when
9. No sooner than

Examples :-

- Both my brother and my father are lawyers.
- I can't decide whether I'll take Chemical Engineering or take Medical Technology in college.
- No sooner had I stepped outside than it started raining.

IV. Compound Conjunction :-

The phrases which are used as conjunctions are called Compound Conjunctions.

Examples: “in order that, as if, even if, as soon as, so that, as well as, etc.”

- She left early in order that his children would not be alone at home.
- He behaved as if nothing had happened.
- I will get there, even if I have to walk all the way.
- As soon as you've finished your homework, let me see it.
- He worked hard so that everything would be ready in time.
- I can show you my garden on the condition that you will not pluck the flowers.

Important Rules of Conjunctions :-

RULE 1 :- “Not only.....but also”, ‘And’, ‘As well as’ and ‘Both.....and’, conjunctions are used to join two nouns, pronouns, and adjectives.

Examples :-

- She is both attractive and clever.
- He is famous not only in his state but also in his country. (Here the stress is on ‘state’ and ‘country’.)
- Mohan as well as Sohan are going to the party. (Here the stress is on ‘Mohan’ and ‘Sohan’.)

RULE 2 :- “Neither.....nor”

For more than two use “None of”.

“Either.....or”

For more than two use “One of”.

Examples :-

- She is neither intelligent nor laborious.
- None of the three boys is intelligent.
- He is either good at Physics or at Chemistry.
- One of the boys has done this work.

RULE 3 :- 'Though' and 'although' are followed by 'yet'. (Though/Although....yet)

Example :-

- Though he is poor but he is honest. (Incorrect)
Though he is poor yet he is honest. (Correct)

RULE 4 :- 'Even if' is followed by 'but'. (Even if.....but)

Example :-

- Even if it rains tomorrow yet we will still have the picnic. (Incorrect)
Even If it rains tomorrow but we will still have the picnic . (Correct)

RULE 5 :- 'That' cannot be used to express interrogative or imperative expression.

Examples :-

- What's that it means?(Incorrect)
What does it means?(Correct)
- He said that stop talking(Incorrect)
Stop talking.(Correct)

RULE 6 :- 'Whether' is followed by 'or'. (whetheror)

Examples :-

- I don't know if I will go to the party or stay home. (Incorrect)
I don't know whether I will go to the party or stay home.(Correct)
- A student will have to learn all the lessons if they are easy or difficult. (Incorrect)
A student will have to learn all the lessons whether they are easy or difficult. (Correct)

RULE 7 :- 'When' is used when two actions take place one by one; if two actions are simultaneous, use 'while'.

Examples :-

- When I was on the road, I saw a girl. (Incorrect)
While I was on the road, I saw a girl. (Correct)
- While I reached there she had gone out. (Incorrect)
When I reached there she had gone out. (Correct)

RULE 8 :-

'Lest' is followed by 'should', it is always used in a negative sense so do not use another negative word with it. (lest.....should)

Examples :-

- Work hard lest you may fail. (Incorrect)
Work hard lest you should fail. (Correct)
- Run fast lest you should not miss the train. (Incorrect)
Run fast lest you should miss the train. (Correct)

RULE 9 :- 'No sooner' is followed by 'than'; just after no sooner, we use the helping verb. (No sooner.....than)

Examples :-

- No sooner did he go out then she came. (Incorrect)
No sooner did he go out than she came. (Correct)
- No sooner I did reach there when he started the lecture. (Incorrect)
No sooner did I reach there than he started the lecture. (Correct)

RULE 10 :- 'Other' is followed by 'than'. (Other.....than)

Examples :-

- He has other work that to do this. (Incorrect)
He has other work than to do this. (Correct)

RULE 11 :-

'Until' is used for time, while 'unless' is used for condition. They are negatives. So do not use any other negative with them.

Examples :-

- Unless you don't labour, you cannot pass. (Incorrect)
Unless you labour you cannot pass. (Correct)
- Until she comes I shall wait for him. (Correct)
- Until/till = up to a particular point in time

Examples :-

You are unlikely to earn decent money until you start working hard.

I won't start the project till I hear that all the plans have been approved.

She resigned in March but continued to draw her salary till the end of May.

Please wait in the waiting room until they call your name.

Note :- We can't use 'Till' at the beginning of the sentence.

- Till she comes I shall wait for him. (Incorrect)
- Until she comes I shall wait for him. (Correct)

RULE 12 :- Unless is used to indicate that if something does not happen, something else will happen.Examples :-

- I shall not refund your money unless you send me the original receipt.
- I can't help you unless you tell me everything in detail.

Note :- Present tense is used with both "until" and "unless" to indicate future time. It is sometimes used with simple past tense and present perfect tense, but not as frequently. In the examples given below, unless introduces an afterthought or a less likely situation:

Examples :-

- Where's Ravi ?
I don't know. He should still be here unless he went home early. (It is less likely that he went home early)
- Where are my tennis shoes?
They should be in the shoe box unless you've left them at the club. (It is less likely that he left his shoes at the club)

RULE 13 :- 'Scarcely', 'hardly', and 'barely' are followed by 'when' and after that subject is written.Example :-

- Hardly had he left home than the guests reached. (Incorrect)
Hardly had he left home when the guests reached. (Correct)

RULE 14 :- "So" and "so that" are used for cause and purpose. "So that" cannot be used in a negative manner.Example :-

- He is ill so he wants to take a rest.
- He is at home so that he can take a rest for a day.

RULE 15 :- 'Nothing' is followed by 'but'. (Nothing.....but)Example :-

- Nothing but all lies were told by him before the judge.

RULE 16 :- After these verbs: treat, regard, describe, present, portray, decline, depict, define, view, know, respect, select etc. etc. we use "as" to link the object of the verb with the way it is being perceived or considered.

Structure : verb + object + as + the way of considering object.

Examples :-

- Do not treat a servant a servant. (Incorrect)
Do not treat a servant as a servant. (Correct)
- She regards me her brother. (Incorrect)
She regards me as her brother. (Correct)

RULE 17 :-

So.....that

Too.....to

Example :-

- He is too sick to go to the office. (Correct)
- He is so sick that he cannot go to the office. (Correct)

Both the sentences are correct and "too.....to" and "so.....that" can be used interchangeably.

"Too" can not be used in place of "very".

- He is very happy. (Correct)
- It is too hot. (This means it is excessively hot and "so" should not be used.)

Therefore for positive and good things we do not use "too".

- I am too happy to meet you. (Incorrect)
(The above sentence means that actually, I should not be so happy.)

RULE 18 :- 'As soon as'

(This conjunction is used when two things happen in the future one after the other and the happening of the second depends on the first incident.)

We shall use the simple present for the first incident and the simple future for the second incident.

Example :-

- As soon as he will reach, he will get in touch with you. (will reach is incorrect; use reaches)
As soon as the chief arrives, we will conduct the quiz competition. (Correct)

RULE 19 :-

Between.....and

From.....to

We use From.....to, to talk about ranges of different things or for a stretch of time and to talk about a change in the state of someone or something.

Examples :-

- The show is from 3 pm to 6 pm.
- The colour of the liquid changed from red to purple.

When something will be in between two points then Between.....and is used.

Example :-

- The meeting can be anytime between 5 and 6

RULE 20 :- With 'the same.....that' is used.

Example :-

- This is the same shirt as I wore yesterday. ("as" is incorrect, use "that")

RULE 21 :- The conjunction 'doubt/doubtful' is followed by 'that' in negative or interrogative sentences whereas in affirmative sentences, these are followed by 'if' or 'whether'.

Examples :-

- He doubts if he can come to drop you. (Affirmative Sentence)
- I don't doubt that he is hardworking. (Negative Sentence)
- She is doubtful whether she will attend the party. (Affirmative Sentence)

Important :- When the conjunctions are in pairs, the pairing should be correct.

- | | |
|-----------------------|--------------------------------|
| 1. Though yet | 9. From to |
| 2. Althoughyet | 10. Betweenand |
| 3. Bothand | 11. So that |
| 4. The samethat | 12. Tooto |
| 5. Suchthat | 13. Lest should |
| 6. Else But | 14. Soas |
| 7. OtherThan | 15. Hardly/ Scarcelywhen |
| 8. RatherThan | 16. No sooner Than |

RULE 22 :- Avoid using "thus, so, hence or therefore" in the same sentence with "since, because, or as" to prevent redundancy in indicating both cause and consequence.

Example :-

- Because you have worked hard, so you will crack the SSC CGL Examination. (Incorrect)
- Because you have worked hard, you will crack the SSC CGL Examination. (Correct)

RULE 23 :- If a sentence starts with 'The reason' we do not use 'because' instead use 'that'.

Example :-

- The reason why she goes to the library is because she wants to study. (Incorrect)
- The reason why she goes to the library is that she wants to study. (Correct)

RULE 24 :- In sentences containing negative terms such as "no," "not," "never," etc., the conjunction "nor" is not used; instead, the conjunction "or" is used.

Example :-

- He did not dance nor sing last night. (Incorrect)
- He did not dance or sing last night. (correct)

Answers With Explanation :-

Spot the Error

- Sol.1.(b) Replace "and" with "or". The disjunctive conjunction "either" is followed by "or" not "and".
- Sol.2.(a) Replace "so" with "as". "So.....as" is used in Negative sentences, whereas "As.....as" is used in Positive as well as Negative sentences.
- Sol.3.(c) Replace "then" with "when". The conjunction "scarcely" is followed by "when".
- Sol.4.(d) no error.
- Sol.5.(a) Replace "also" with 'and'. "Both.....and" is a cumulative conjunction.
- Sol.6.(a) Replace "and" with "or". "whether" and "or" used in pairs.
- Sol.7.(a) Replace "not" with "nor". "Neither" is followed by "nor".
- Sol.8.(d) no error.

Sol.9.(a) Replace "hence" with "since". "Since" implies a direct causal relationship between two events or conditions.

Sol.10.(b) Replace "so" with "because". Here the reason for coming late is mentioned, "because" will be used.

Sol.11.(b) Replace "and" with "or". The conjunction "either" is followed by "or".

Sol.12.(d) no error.

Sol.13.(b) Replace "while" with "when". For two simultaneous actions, "while" is used but to show interrupted action "when" is used.

Sol.14.(d) no error.
